French Painting Exhibition

ARTS CENTRE (NATIONAL MUSEUM) > WED 16 - TUE 22 NOVEMBER

This exhibition sees several artists present their work together, from the Corianne Gallery in Paris.

The artists include Martine Martine, whose art is independent, unclassifiable, emancipated from the "isms" of art schools. She creates sculptures, paintings, colour washed drawings, drawings, engravings. Her techniques are numerous, such as her themes: concerts, portraits, books, tribes, horses, sumos, and more.

Franck Duminil also exhibits. His pastel sketches and thickly layered oil painting, portray his "Vision intérieure". Tending to evoke stormy skyscapes within his palette of blues, yellows, greys and white, Duminil finishes several of his paintings by casting electric veins of color across the surface

Arthur Djoroukhian, has been a practising artist for many years, but for ten years restored churches and cathedrals. Nowadays, he is only a painter.

Javier Clavo is a long time devotee to watercolours, and has a large portfolio of magnificent bullfighting scenes, among others.
